"LIFE BEGINS TODAY," by Stephen Foot. Juta and Co.
Ltd. 6/-.

THIS is a Moral Re-Armament Book by a distinguished author. It is, like its predecessor, 'Life Began Yesterday,' a book about change; change in human relationships, standards of value, change in industry, change in nations and races, but above change in our relationship with God.

From an experience of mankind found in business, in warfare, in education, Major Foot writes about men, their needs, their hopes, and from a rich experience of divine grace he tells men of God's plan. And until that plan is realised and we as individuals are prepared to fit into it — and this may mean humiliation, patient waiting and deep sharing — there will just be no meaning to life itself.

CHANGE IN MEN

For many life has no meaning, and they only reach the Rolls Royce of their dreams when it comes as a hearse to take them to their graves! Change is necessary, not in the nature of God, but in the nature of man, if all the problems of home and world are to be solved. This book seeks to answer in factual stories from every phase of life the What, How and Why of the ideology of change, and seeks to bring men under God's control and guidance. This way, and this way only, lies the hope of world peace and human justice.

May God bless the work of this book and its author who has dedicated his life to cause of making it true for all men that "Life Begins Today."
