MORAL REARMAMENT CAMPAIGN IN CITY

A FORTNIGHT'S Moral Rearmament campaign will be conducted in Port Elizabeth in September by members of the team from four overseas countries and students of Cape Town and Pretoria Universities. Members of the team visited Port Elizabeth last week for preliminary arrangements.

The team will visit most of the centres in the Eastern Province. Their tour will open with a campaign at Graaff Reinet on July 31 and close with a conference at Grahamstown.

During-the campaign in Port Elizabeth films will be shown and choral items. will be rendered by an international chorus. Speakers, besides those from South Africa, will include others from the United Kingdom, Holland, Denmark and Switzerland.

PLAY IN CITY

A Moral Rearmament team visited Port Elizabeth two years ago, when they produced the play "The Forgotten Factor".

The present team recently returned from a tour of East Africa, during which "The Forgotten Factor" was produced in Kenya under the patronage of the Governer-General of Kenya. Mr. J. Windig, leader of the team, told the Eastern Province Herald yesterday that East African Natives responded readily to the theme of Moral Rearmament—harmony and unity among the races.

NEW BELIEF

One of the striking results of the tour was seen in an influential Native revolutionary leader who had attended the meetings in East Africa and who later publicly stated his new belief of tolerance and co-operation with the White people.

Mr. Windig said Moral Rearmament had inspired the housing scheme for Natives at Springs. It was planned to put up 5,000 houses in five years, the Natives building the houses themselves. In the first year, however, 2,000 had already been built. The scheme was finding favour with the Johannesburg City Council.
